This year's judges: Artist Ella Delyanis and Photographer Ron Rosenstock.

Ella Delyanis is an award-winning pastel and oil artist who continues to show her work in exhibits throughout the Northeast. Most recently she received the Pan Pastel Award at the CT Pastel Society's "Renaissance in Pastel" 2024 national juried exhibit. You can also see Ella's work in many corporate collections. In addition to painting, she is a certified art teacher and currently teaches drawing and painting classes for adults and children at the Worcester Art Museum. She also offers private and semiprivate lessons. <https://elladelyanis.com/>

Ron Rosenstock has been creating images of the world and its people since the 1950's. He studied at Goddard College where he received a Master of Arts degree in Photography. Since 1967, he has taught photography primarily at Clark University. Ron has published six books of his photos and authored many articles on the art and craft of photography. He appeared on WGBH nightly news in Boston and on cable programs around New England. Ron has exhibited in over one hundred shows worldwide; most recently at The National Museum of Iceland. His work is also in permanent collections including the Fogg Art Museum, Worcester Art Museum, MIT, and the International Center of Photography. He is a current member and former Board member of the North American Nature Photographers' Association and continues to lead photography tours around the world. <https://www.ronrosenstock.com/>
